UNDERSTANDING FEMALE PELVIC ANATOMY IN 3D DVD
END USER LICENSE AGREEMENT

Please read through this Agreement. If you do not agree with these stipulations, do not remove the shrinkwrap on the DVD and arrange for a return. This agreement is quite detailed with lots of legalize. The part most relevant to daily use, the types of permissions granted according to licensing fees paid, is included at the beginning. I have tried to anticipate the variety of ways licensees may wish to use this software. If you discover that you want to use the material in a new way, for example you originally obtained an individual license and now want to start using it as an independent instructor, you can simply call me to pay the difference to bring yourself into compliance. If I there is some question left unanswered here, please call or email me to ask about legitimate uses that may not be addressed in this document.

Licensing of the Software Product

The two tools included on the DVD "Understanding Female Pelvic Anatomy in 3D" ("collectively referred to as the "Software Product" or "DVD") and accompanying documentation are licensed and not sold. This Software Product is protected by copyright laws and treaties, as well as laws and treaties related to other forms of intellectual property. Labrys Press or its subsidiaries, affiliates, and suppliers (collectively "Labrys Press") own intellectual property rights in the Software Product. The Licensee's ("you" or "your") license to download, use, copy, or make changes to the Software Product is subject to these rights and to all the terms and conditions of this End User Licensing Agreement and Terms of Use ("Agreement").

Acceptance of this Agreement

YOU ACCEPT AND AGREE TO BE BOUND BY THE TERMS OF THIS AGREEMENT BY PROCEEDING WITH BREAKING AND REMOVING THE SHRINKWRAP ON THE SOFTWARE PRODUCT OR BY INSTALLING, USING, OR COPYING THE SOFTWARE PRODUCT. YOU MUST AGREE TO ALL OF THE TERMS OF THIS AGREEMENT BEFORE YOU PROCEED TO REMOVE THE SHRINKWRAP FROM THE SOFTWARE PRODUCT. IF YOU DO NOT AGREE TO ALL OF THE TERMS OF THIS AGREEMENT, YOU MUST NOT OPEN, INSTALL, USE, OR COPY THE SOFTWARE PRODUCT.

Returns policy

Once the shrink-wrap is broken, the product is non-returnable except for detects in material or workmanship.

Technical Support

Technical support from Labrys Press for Software Products is primarily limited to questions regarding the use of the program itself once it is successfully installed. Labrys Press is not equipped to provide computer hardware or operating system (Windows) support; for that you must consult an independent computer expert at your own expense.

Copying is Prohibited

Copying of this DVD or its contents for the purpose of loaning, giving or selling it to another person or institution is prohibited. Please know that it cost a fortune to produce this DVD. Obtaining a legitimate license supports me as well as my work. Thank you for your honesty and integrity. So there is no confusion, legitimate uses are outlined in detail below. If you still have questions, please contact me at anne@midwiferybooks.com.

Categories of use licensing permissions

There are several categories of licenses (there are some special provisions for users in developing countries described under a separate header in this Agreement). Licensing is priced according to the type of use being sought. There categories are:

- Individual use (personal, private use, or use in a no-fee private study group of only students)
- Independent professional educator (someone not affiliated with a formal educational program that will regularly show content to paying audiences more than twice yearly)
- Institutional use (all types)
- Special provisions for residents of developing countries

If you have purchased it at an individual price, but now find you wish to use it when teaching workshops, for example, you can bring your copy into compliance by simply calling the office and paying the difference in the licensing fee.

Use by an Individual Licensee in the Developed World

Individual licensees are defined as students or professionals, including all types of educators, who wish to use the DVD only for their own personal and private study. They may copy the contents of this DVD to up to two of their personal computing devices that will not to be used simultaneously for the viewing of the software. They may view the vignettes on any television or other device that allows such viewing. The individual user may copy the files to a flash drive or other type of media or storage device if necessary to transfer them to their computer or other compatible device.

When a computing device is retired, the user should first delete all of the software content from the hard drive or removable drive before disposal or passing on the device to another for their use.

Once installed on their own computing devices, individual licensees may always show (but not give or transfer) this material to other interested individuals for the purpose of review so that they can decide if they wish to purchase a license for themselves. Individual users should not charge for viewing this DVD, other than as allowed for under independent educator use, as described below.

Printing of PDF files: This DVD contains a PDF file of this user's manual as well as a copy of the anatomy portion of my text HEALING PASSAGE. You may print a copy of the user's manual. You may want to print it in color, as it contains a few color screen images.

The anatomy portion of the text is formatted to prevent inadvertent alteration. It is also indexed and typos that appear in the print version have been corrected. It can be searched, moved to a computer or tablet for reading on screen and the licensee is allowed to print one copy for personal use only. It should not be duplicated or otherwise shared with others in any manner for any purpose. If your one copy becomes lost or destroyed, you may print out another copy for your personal use.

Group student use: Small groups of students studying independently at a private home or community room such as those offered at a church, bank, public library or other public venue (but not at a school, school library or other educational institution) may view the contents of an individually licensed software as a group, as long as the contents are not copied to devices other than those owned by the individual licensee. Each student should have their own text and their own software license for their private use at home. Students participating in a study group that takes place at a school or school library should use the copy licensed by the school. A student group is defined as a gathering of students purely for the purpose of study; there should be no fees involved for participating in the group and no expert teaching the class (that use falls in the next category).

Individual educator use: Individual licensees who offer independent educational presentations, that is, a presentation not associated with a school or other educational institution, may use their personal software product license when teaching in venues such as at conferences, workshops and similar offerings, whether free or presented for a fee up to two times a year (use exceeding twice yearly that occurs on a regular basis warrants licensing the software product at the independent educator's rate, you can call Labrys Press to report the new use and pay the difference to bring yourself into compliance with this permissions agreement).

The educator should include information about how the text and DVD can be obtained verbally in their presentation and in writing in any handouts they may give out. If a Powerpoint presentation is also used, this information could be included for students to copy down. The following information should be included on a slide, in writing on a handout, or both (if both media are used):

> "UNDERSTANDING FEMALE PELVIC ANATOMY IN 3-D is designed to accompany the 6th edition of the text HEALING PASSAGE: A MIDWIFE'S GUIDE TO THE CARE AND REPAIR OF THE TISSUES INVOLVED IN BIRTH, by Anne Frye. The text and the DVD may be obtained by visiting the website: www.midwiferybooks.com. For those who are not in the field of maternity care, a copy of the anatomy portion of the HEALING PASSAGE is included on the disk. Pricing varies according to the intended use, check the website."

Independent professional educators: An independent professional educator is defined as a person who is not affiliated with a school or university who will use the DVD regularly to teach audiences of students for a fee more often than twice yearly, whether or not CEUs are granted. These individuals should purchase a license at the independent educator's rate. Apart from the number of teaching engagements, all other permissions and restrictions apply.

Uses by individual licensees residing in developing countries: DVDs licensed at the individual price rate may be used for any educational purpose if the presentation is taking place in a developing country and the owner of the DVD is a native or permanent resident of that country. All other restrictions about copying of the software product still apply. Up to ten copies of the PDF file of the anatomy portion of the text may be made and distributed to students. Permission to make additional copies must be requested by e-mail (anne@midwiferybooks.com). If the licensee has access to funding that would cover the institutional rate for the DVD, full payment of the direct-entry midwife institutional rate would be appreciated but is not required, if the money could go to cover other necessary expenses.

Use by an educational institution or library

DVDs for institutional use are licensed at an price that grants permission for repeated viewing and use of the material by groups of tuition-paying students or the public, as would be the case for a pubic library. Educational institutional use includes use by faculty or students at established in-house or at-a-distance training programs of all types that grant some kind of certificate of completion (beyond CEUs).

At-a-distance programs may use the software product in webinars as they might in a regular classroom but are not permitted to install the software on a server for any-time access by students: students should be directed to obtain individual licenses for their personal, private study.

Institutions include but are not limited to schools, colleges, medical libraries and universities or any other formal educational program apart from short independent workshops taught by an individual educator/licensee.

School libraries should purchase a separate license for use by library patrons of all types. A department within an institution can license a single copy at the institutional price for use by up to 5 (five) faculty members. Even if a faculty member has an individual license to use the software product, the school should use a copy licensed at the appropriate institutional price for use in the classroom, seminar or library setting.

The only exception to these rules is when a visiting instructor wishes to use the software program in a presentation to be given at an institution where the faculty has never seen the material before. In such cases, the visiting faculty may use the DVD in their presentation, which will allow the students and resident faculty members to view the material. If the visiting instructor is also connected to a college, university or other educational institution, ideally, the copy used should be one that was licensed by the home institution of the visiting faculty member. If such a copy is not available, the instructor may use their own personal copy in this special circumstance; the rules for use by an independent educator apply. After that, however, the institution where the presentation took place should obtain a copy for their continued use and for use by future visiting faculty if they wish to incorporate this material into their program.

Library use of DVD by patrons: I recommend that a printed copy of the DVD User's Manual and a printed copy of the PDF Anatomy file (excerpt from the text) be given to the patron with the DVD whenever it is to be used. If the library has a copy of the complete textbook, HEALING PASSAGE, it can be included or at least recommended with checkout at the library's discretion. Perhaps a copy of the text can be purchased that will always accompany the audio/visual tools. Because the disk includes a copyrighted program that must be installed on a computer before it can be used, I highly recommend that the library designate this material as "reference use only" and install the interactive 3D anatomy program on a library computer, for in-house patron use only.

Archival Copy Permission

General terms: In addition to permission to install and use the Software Product on two personal computing devices, you may make one archival copy of the Software Product. The archival copy must be on a storage medium other than a hard drive, and may only be used for the reinstallation of the Software Product. This Agreement does not permit the installation or use of additional copies of the Software Product, or the installation of the Software Product on more than two personal devices at any given time, on a system that allows shared used of applications, on a multi-user network, or on any configuration or system of computers that would be used to allow simultaneous viewing of the software.

Multiple copy and use permission must be granted individually

Other than as set forth in this Agreement, multiple copy use or installation is only allowed if you obtain an appropriate licensing agreement for each user and each copy of the Software Product. For further information regarding multiple copy licensing of the Software Product, please contact:
